

UNITING DISABLED INDIVIDUALS, INC

Presents a workshop by

Yeiter

author of

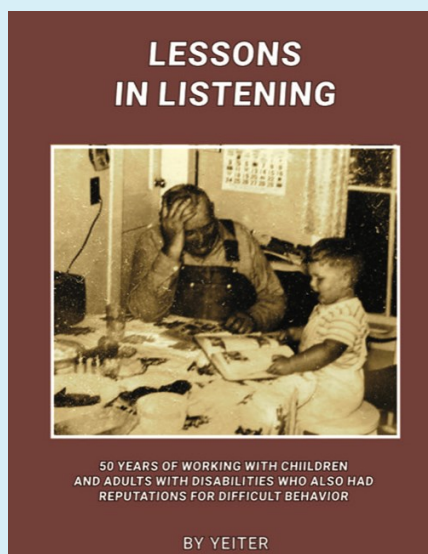

“Lessons in Listening”

Wednesday

August 17, 2022

9:00am - 12:00pm EST

FREE WORKSHOP
REGISTRATION REQUIRED

Based on his book, Yeiter will present an overview of how to integrate and apply the 14 lessons/ideas on how to strive towards supporting an individual with a reputation for difficult behavior. Participants are encouraged to read the book prior to the workshop. It is available as a free PDF download here:

If you are a parent or direct support worker involved in the life of someone with a disability who has a reputation for being difficult, self-injurious, assaultive, withdrawn, or “non-compliant”, this workshop will provide a relationship-based alternative to the more traditional behavioral approaches. The core ideas for this approach are drawn from Person Centered Planning, Gentle Teaching and Social Role Valorization with at least of few from Yeiter’s school of hard knocks.

This introductory workshop will provide a combination of lecture and group exercises along with stories and video clips that demonstrate the points being made. The workshop is intended to at least give participants some practical framework for working/thinking through difficult issues of behavior. The book in and of itself provides not only the core ideas but many excellent resources for advancing your practice.
